WILL NOT DIE

Murderer Puueo Marvel
To Surgery.

With His Throat Almost Severed
The Native Eats Through His Wound.

Puueo, the native who killed his wife, still remains in the land of the living despite the fact that a big orifice opens into his neck through which one might put his hand.

Not since the night of the murder has Puueo opened his mouth. Neither has he taken in a breath through his mouth or nose. It is a physical impossibility for him to do so. His eyes significantly tell the story that he still retains life although his head is nearly severed from the trunk. On the night of the tragedy when Puueo was laid out on the operating table at the Queen's Hospital, Supt.
Eckhardt turned over the apparently almost lifeless form. Puueo for the first time showed unmistakable signs of strong vitality by attempting to wrench himself from his grasp. Then the horrible nature of Puueo's wound was first ascertained. He had sufficient strength to throw his head far back while straining in the strong grasp of the attendants. His struggles caused the severed arteries to pour out more blood and almost caused him to choke as the fluid ran into the open windpipe. As far back as the spine the interior of the neck could then be seen, showing that nothing but the spine itself had withstood the determined gashes which Puueo inflicted upon himself.

Several times Puueo made his strong attempts to break loose from the attendants, and each time the strain caused the blood to flow afresh and then his head sank down over the rubber pillows. Dr.
McDonald, who had been hastily called in by Superintendent Eckhardt, examined Puueo at that time, cleansed the wound, and then stated that the man would die inside of an hour. Indeed, it seemed at times that Puueo was undergoing the death struggle—strange, rattling noises came from the opening in the neck, while his eyes were rolled about in agony.
As stated in yesterday's Advertiser, Dr.
Wood said that stitching the wound is out of the question. Many of the smaller arteries are severed, the muscles which gave action to the jaw and face are of no further use, or paralyzed. This being the case, the stitching of the orifice would cause almost immediate strangulation.
The orifice is so wide and the edges drawn back to such an extent that it cannot be closed satisfactorily, as Dr. Wood fears that the man would make a movement and tear them out. As the jaw muscles are paralyzed, Puueo could not receive nourishment through the mouth, and will continue to breathe through his neck until such a time when other measures can be taken to put his anatomy back into its normal condition, if he continues to live at all.

Yesterday Puueo received his first meal since Monday night. He ate three raw eggs and drank a quart of milk. The process was simple. A tube was placed in the oesophagus and regular mouthfuls of the food and liquid poured into his artificial mouth, and thus conveyed to his stomach. He breathes with considerable regularity.

Puueo was reported last evening from the hospital as being in sound slumber and resting peacefully, and in fact sleeping much better than many other patients.

NEW AND DISTRESSING.

A Malady Resulting From the Use of a Modern Article of Feminine Attire.

"A new and strange malady has appeared in Washington," said a Connecticut avenue physician, "which has afflicted several of my patients, and which bids fair to attack the gentler sex as the season advances."

"I was called in by the husband of a lady, who told me in great alarm that while she was preparing for the theatre she was seized with sudden and violent convulsions of the head, neck and vertebra. Her sufferings were very acute, the symptoms finally becoming so severe that her head was twisted around to one side to the extent that she faced backward."

"I was much concerned on the way from my office to the house, as the indications pointed to strychnine convulsions."

"I found the lady's head turned quite around, indicating a serious wrench of the spinal column and the muscles of the neck. She was in a state of coma.
I applied restoratives. After considerable difficulty I succeeded in reducing the muscular tension. I was also fortunate in getting her cranium back to its normal position. When she recovered consciousness she was able to look forward instead of backward to her intense delight and the decided relief of her husband. Luckily for her the tension had not been of sufficient duration and vigor to form a permanent position of the muscles. It would have been rather awkward for her to have gone through life with her face looking west over her left shoulder while the remainder of her body walked east."

"I diagnosed the ailment as pulley-belt-spino-appendicitis, accompanied by extreme rigor of the mastoid-jugal-muscles. My advice to ladies who wear the pulley belt is, not to feel that their lives depend upon having the points of the diamond in the center surely, squarely, truly, exactly precisely, positively and perfectly even in the back with the center of the skirt, or their necks may become dislocated in attempting to see around, down and behind, and remain so forever."

A Shelby County Justice of the peace, whose residence and civil district adjoin the Mississippi State line, had an abnormal appreciation of the responsibility of the office, and never lost an opportunity to exercise his prerogative of demanding that peace be preserved.
One day his son and a hired man got to fighting on a stretch of the farm near the fence which separated the two States. The old gentleman mounted the fence, and with an air of authority commanded: "In the name of the State of Tennessee I demand peace." Just then the fence gave way, and as he went down with the fence toppling to the Mississippi side, he yelled to his son: "Give 'em —, Billy! I've lost my jurisdiction!"

THE BRIDE'S PHOTOGRAPH.

All the Sisters, Cousins and Aunts Make Suggestions.

"I would rather photograph a 2-months-old baby than a June bride," said a fashionable photographer. "It is very difficult to get a good picture of a bride. Somehow a girl never looks her best on her wedding day. She is apt to be nervous and pale and the white costume is trying. But there is a new fad for these bride photographs and this month is the time we have our rush."

"They usually come in the day before the ceremony and bring a host of relatives, bridesmaids and sometimes the bridegroom-to-be and the best men to worry the photographer by suggesting all sorts of impossible things. Sometimes they all swoop in on their way to the church and they are more nervous to handle than a fox terrier."

"The bride is always anxious to look timid and shrinking and modest and the bridegroom wants her to roll up her eyes like a Madonna. Between the two and the conflict as to whether she shall carry a prayer book or a bouquet it is impossible to get a bright, happy expression on the face. Nearly all our photographed brides have a sad, far-away expression; a 'mother-I-am-going-to-leave-you-forever' look."

"At times the idea of getting the festivities following the ceremony, and the entire bridal party descends upon the studio, scattering rice and flowers everywhere. They take possession of the place and all other business must be suspended while they turn the gallery into a wedding annex. Do I think it a good idea? No, candidly, I don't.
I always advise mothers not to have their babies photographed on a fur rug without any clothing on, and I don't think the bride pictures are as successful as others. A tranquil, happy state of mind is necessary for a good photograph, and there is always a great deal of anxiety and nervousness about a wedding day."

UNAFFECTED.

"She isn't much affected by her wealth."
"Indeed?"
"She has no ancestry!"
"No?"
"Yes; and ten children!"

BORN.
